300,000 a Minute Slow.

Mr. Mellon's Punch.

Strangely, We Die.

Fourth Dry Anniversary.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright 1924 by Star Company

A machine perfected in England takes 300,000 pictures in a minute. The camera, weighing two tons, is used to measure the power of shells hitting armor plate, speed of bullets etc.

Marvelous but old nature smiles at our childish efforts. If we really could use the speed of light to the full extent we might take a photograph 186,000 miles long, running seven and a half times around the world, in one second.

We haven't begun to use the resources of nature. As Nickola Tesla said to this writer thirty years ago, and as every student now knows, there is, bound up in the force that holds molecules, atoms and electrons together, enough power in an ordinary glass of water to run the machinery of the United States.

Mr. Mellon, mild in speech, appears, as modern slang has it, "to pack a punch." Senator Couzens, who got thirty odd millions in one lump from Henry Ford for his stock in the Ford company, tells Mr. Mellon that he is all wrong about taxes, and high surtaxes don't make any difference.

Mr. Mellon replies in substance, "your opinion would be more valuable if you hadn't invested your entire fortune in tax-exempt securities, which pay no income tax."

Strangely we live, even more strangely we die. Carlyle Harris said, standing beside the electric chair, and making a little bow, "I would like to say a few words; I suppose I may be permitted."

He then denied that he had committed the crime for which they killed him.

His denial was false.

Yesterday, Frank Sage was electrocuted in New Jersey for killing a policeman. He asked one favor, "to be allowed to show nerve and walk to the electric chair without guards." he walked to the chair unguarded and sat in it, praying for forgiveness. First he kissed the three clergymen that accompanied him to the death-room.

In France, one murderer, marching to the guilotine, holding a heavy metal cross in his hands, suddenly turned and, with the cross brained the priest that walked beside him, although his hands were tied together. Since that time the priest carries the cross as the murderer walks out of the Prison of La Roquette.

The fourth anniversary of the eighteenth amendment was celebrated in Washington yesterday. How do you think prohibition has worked thus far?

Its enemies tell you, truly, that bootleg liquor born of prohibition is the worst ever drunk, it blinds, poisons and kills.

Friends of prohibition tell you, also truly, that fewer people go to jail, the poor house and the insane asylum, and many more millions are deposited in savings banks than in the old days.

It is for you to choose. Meanwhile, be sure of this. Nobody will know anything about prohibition for at least sixty years. It will take that long to prove whether alcohol is necessary to Northern races—weather Orientals have amounted to little because they drink no alcohol, or in spite of the fact that they drink no alcohol.

Worry destroys the mind. Seventy years ago Ireland's population was 6,552,385. The number of insane then numbered 9,980.

Today with a population of only 4,390,000, the lunatics number 28,437. In proportion to population there are more than four times as many maniacs as there were in the old days.

Allow for failure to keep accurate statistics seventy years ago and the figures are still appalling.

BOARD MEMBERS END CONVENTION; BLAINE ATTACKED

FAILURE OF STATE ADMINISTRATION TO LIFT TAX BURDEN BRINGS FIRE FROM ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

(By Associated Press)

Wausau, Wis., Jan. 18—By crowding two days' work into one the Wisconsin County Boards association closed its convention at midnight Thursday at a banquet given the members by the local board at the Eagles' hall at which City Attorney Patrick T. Stone delivered an address of good will.

The convention unanimously reelected R. W. Davis, Bangor, as president, and J. S. Prentiss of Watertown secretary and treasurer, and put in Wm. E. McCarthy, Milwaukee, as vice president. The next convention goes to Kenosha in January, 1925. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $270.43.

Favor Home Rule

Resolutions were adopted favoring an amendment for home rule of cities, a gasoline tax, and a change in the system which would leave the counties with 20 percent of all penal fines instead of as now with 2 percent.

The sentiment and feeling against legislative inaction by the legislature and the governor was expressed in many talks during the convention, and was most forcibly expressed in President Davis' closing address in which he aid in part:

Blaine Defied People

"This association of county boards was betrayed by the last legislature and by Governor Blaine, and I regret that stronger expressions cannot be used in forming a resolution. We come directly from the people, and are in closer contact with them than our legislators, and we know what the people want. Yet the legislators and governor, in the face of the most solemn referendum ever given in a state, in defiance of us and the taxpayers, refused to reduce the taxes or to adopt a reasonable suggestion for the maintenance of highways to relieve the burden upon the property owners.

"I want you to take this message home and tell it at all your town meetings. Ask the people if we must submit to be governed by a political clique; if we must be ruled by political quacks; if we are to be made the plaything of political might as well as quacks of the federal government; and if the trusted executive was justified in vetoing the two-cent gasoline bill last year, never giving any real reason for his defiance of the people in doing so."

Burned Shack to Destroy Evidence; Held Anyway

(By Associated Press)

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 18—Herman Kluge, a Washburn farmer, was brought to circuit court from Bayfield county following a raid on his farm Dec. 26 by Sheriff John McDonald and two prohibition agents. He was released on $500 bonds. Testimony showed that Kluge saw the men coming to his place and set on fire a small house in which the alleged liquor operations were conducted. One of the officials rushed into the burning shed and dipped up a pail of mash from the flaming barrel.

La Follette May Go On N. D. Ballot

(By Associated Press)

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 18.—A movement to place the name of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin on the ballot at the March 18, primary in this state as a candidate for the presidency, and announcement that two sets of Coolidge delegates to the Republican national convention would be in the race, were important developments last night in North Dakota politics.

Following conferences here with La Follette supporters, Gerald F. Nye, candidate for congressman from the second district, said that a statewide campaign would be started immediately to put Mr. La Follette's name on the ballot. According to Mr. Nye men in Washington, close to the Wisconsin senator, have indicated that such a move would meet with Senator LaFollette's approval.

VOTERS TO PICK SEVEN DELEGATES

STATE PRIMARY LAW IMPOSES NO LIMITATION ON DELEGATES AT LARGE EKERN RULES

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—The seven delegates-at-large from Wisconsin to the Republican national convention will be elected on the regular ballot forms in the April primaries, under a ruling submitted to Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman today by Attorney General Herman L. Ekern. The attorney general declared that the seven delegates can be elected on the regular ballots instead of four, as previously done, following an increased allotment to the state by the Republican national committee.

The election of four delegates-at-large, as provided by the primary law, is "directory" only as to the number, the attorney general held. It has been understood for several days that the legal department would make this ruling.

Not State Officers

"The delegates to the national convention of a political party are not state officers," the opinion declared. The convention is a voluntary organization which makes its own rules and regulations. The convention may, and does, act as the sole judge of the credentials of the delegates. It has full power to prescribe the number of delegates. The state has no power to determine the number of delegates which the state may have in the national convention of a political party. If the authorized representatives of a political party provide for seven delegates-at-large, this is entirely within their province, and the only effect of the primary law is to provide the machinery for the selection of such delegates.

Elect Necessary Number

"In providing the methods for electing the delegates at large, the legislature merely recognized the existing number and existing practice. The law providing for the election of delegates at a primary election clearly was designed to provide for the election of the necessary number of delegates specified and recognized by the party authorities. It was clearly not designed to impose a mandatory limitation on the number of delegates to be so elected.

"It is therefore, plain that the statute is directory merely as to the number of delegates to be elected that where the number of delegates for the state is increased to seven by the properly constituted authorities representing the party, the intent of the law is that seven delegates at large to be elected that as used in Sub-section Three of Section 5.22 and in Subsection Six of Section 5.24, and in the form of ballot prescribed by Section 5.24 for the purpose of the election of delegates to the Republican National Convention under the present call, the word 'four' should be read 'seven'."

The attorney general concluded by advising the secretary of state to prepare sample ballots in form to instruct the electors to vote for seven delegates-at-large instead of four. Secretary of State Zimmerman is expected to follow the advice of the legal department on the question. Numerous other ways had been suggested for the selection of the three additional delegates.

NASH HARDWARE COMPANY PLANS STORE BUILDING

WILL START WORK SOON ON NEW STRUCTURE, 110 BY 86 FEET, ON SITE OF PRESENT BUILDING.

Plans for the construction of a modern store and office building on the site of the present Nash hardware store on the corner of Grand Avenue and First avenue south are being prepared and work on the new structure will be commenced in the near future, it was definitely announced today by L. M. Nash, head of the Nash Hardware company. The new building will have a frontage of 110 feet on Grand avenue and 86 feet on First avenue south and will be two stories high.

Plan Three Stores

As announced by Mr. Nash the plans now being prepared call for three stores fronting on Grand avenue, one, at the First avenue end of the structure, to be 40 feet wide and the other two 35 feet wide. The space above all of the store buildings will be devoted to offices. The walls of the present Nash hardware company building, which occupies the front half of the ground which the new structure will cover, will be used in part, but will be entirely refinished in keeping with the new part of the structure.

Operations will be commenced with the removal of the old frame building on First avenue between the present Nash store and the Daily Tribune plant, after which, as soon as weather conditions permit, actual construction work will get under way. Arrangements will be made for housing the hardware stock of the Nash company either in the Nash auto sales room at the corner of Grand and Second avenues, which will be left intact, or in a part of the present building, while the building work is going on.

Will Be Attractive Structure

The new building is expected to be the finest store and office structure in the city. It will be of modern construction throughout and will be attractively finished on the outside in tan brick. Both the Grand avenue and First avenue sides of the building will be devoted to display windows. Sufficient space will be left between the building and the Tribune plant for an alley way to serve the stores from the rear.

Under the plans as they now stand the Nash company will occupy the largest store, that at the corner of First and Grand avenues, while the two adjoining 35 foot stores and the offices above will be rented. The motor sales department of the Nash business will continue to occupy the building at the corner of Grand and Second avenues, as a display room, and a one story service garage will be constructed in the rear of that building.

Contracts for the work will be let as soon as all the details of the plans are complete, it was indicated by Mr. Nash, in order that the new building may be ready for occupancy as soon as possible.

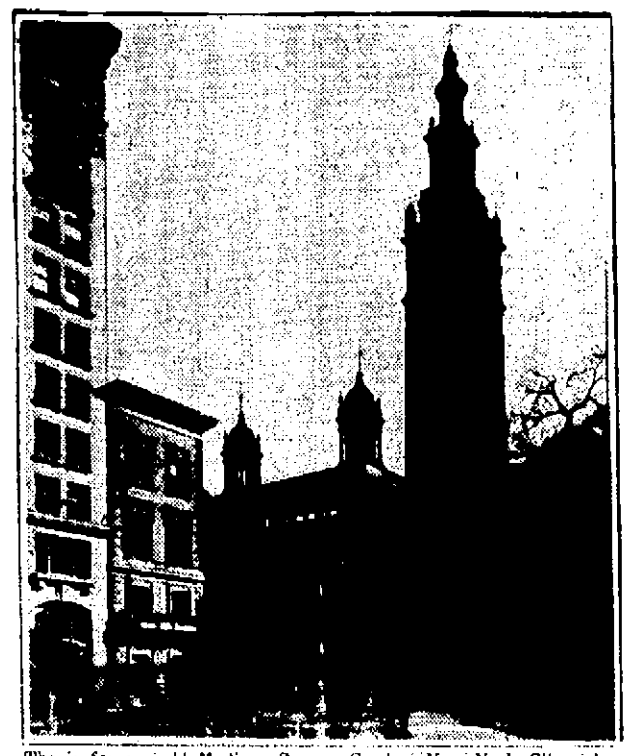
Where Democrats Will Meet



This is famous old Madison Square Garden, New York City, where the Democratic National Convention will be held in June of this year. It was erected in 1889, designed by Stanford White, the famous architect who was killed on the roof garden of the building by Harry K. Thaw. In 1920 Tex Rickard took over the building and has since used it for sports promotions. Seating capacity is 14,000, but plans now are being made whereby it is hoped to increase that figure to 20,000.

"Too Drunk To Kill" Will Be Point Youth's Defense

FLORIAN LASECKI VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES ... ATTORNEY ARGUES IN OPENING OF MURDER CASE

Stevens Point, Wis.—Attorneys for Florian Lasecki, Stevens Point youth charged with the murder of Edward S. Armstrong, alleged rum runner and bootlegger whose body was found in a deserted house in the town of Plover last September, will base their defense on the contention that Lasecki was at the home of his brother at the time the killing is supposed to have taken place and that he was too drunk on the night in question to have killed Armstrong or to have disposed of his body. This much was indicated in the opening statement to the jury of Atty. W. E. Fisher of the defense counsel.

Jury Completed

The drawing of a jury to try the case was completed late Wednesday and yesterday the trial was in full swing with testimony of initial witnesses following opening arguments by attorneys on both sides.

The men and women chosen for service on the jury are: Mrs. Eva Hetzel, Almond; Mrs. Clara Peterson, Amherst; Harvey Smith, Plover; E. E. Riggs, Grant; Alex Hintz, New Hope; Harvey Irish, Almond; Henry Stinson, Belmont; Henry Plahmer, Grant; Thomas Russell, Almond; Levi McGown, Plover; Harlo Brenmer, Stevens Point and Calvin Casey, Almond. Brenmer is the only city resident and the only man on the jury not a farmer.

Will Establish Alibi

Attorney Fisher's opening statement led court followers to believe that a strong case had been built up in Lasecki's defense. Lasecki, Mr. Fisher declared, was "delivered" to the home of his brother, John, at McDill at 3 o'clock in the morning of September 2 in such a state of intoxication that he could hardly stand. He was not in conditions for murder, Mr. Fisher said, and could not have managed Armstrong's big form.

Armstrong's occupation as a bootlegger, and highjacker, the defense attorney declared, was such that he was constantly in fear of death at the hands of some of his underworld enemies. His murder was committed under more mysterious circumstances than the state contends, Mr. Fisher declared, and asserted his belief that Lasecki is the innocent victim of circumstances.

Fall Brings Death When Rope Breaks at Hanging

(By Associated Press)

Fort Madison, Ia., Jan. 18—Roy Maupin, negro, was hanged at 7:26 this morning for the murder of Joe Hayes Carney, Iowa miner. As the trap was sprung and Maupin dropped the rope broke midway between the noose and the knot which fastened it to the gallows, and the body fell through. Warden T. P. Hollowell found that Maupin's neck was broken by the fall and he was pronounced dead at 7:41, fifteen minutes after the trap was sprung.

Wausau, Wis.—In his annual report to the Marathon county board, submitted yesterday, County Agent W. J. Rogan expressed confidence that the area test for bovine tuberculosis in Marathon county would be assured in the near future. About 3,500 signatures to the test petition have already been received in his office, Mr. Rogan reported, and many school districts in various parts of the county have not yet been heard from.

Tone of English Political Life Is Lowered Says M. P.

Ashton-Under-Lyne—Politicians in England have reached a depth of degradation unknown even in the old days of rotten boroughs, said Austen Hopkinson, Conservative member for the Mossley division, in a recent speech here. He asserted there had been a distinct lowering of the whole tone of political life, the Parliaments in succession getting worse and worse.

"The amount of lying, slander and utter lack of patriotism or real love for the welfare of the people," he continued, "baffles description. Unless young men and women do really set their minds to insist upon truth, honesty and patriotism in politics, then I say, heaven help this country."

Federal Prosecutor Will Handle Marion Liquor Cases

Mraion, Ill., Jan. 18.—Persons arrested in the wholesale dry raids in Williamson county recently will be prosecuted by United States District Attorney Potter and his assistants and not by a special assistant to the attorney general, as S. Glenn Young, leader of the raids, asserted, Mr. Potter said today.

WASHINGTON GOVERNMENT ALARMED OVER SITUATION, DISCUSSES PROBLEM IN CABINET MEETING

(By Associated Press)

Austin, Tex., Jan. 18—Permission to transport Mexican federal troops across Texas was refused today by Acting Governor T. W. Davidson in a telegram to Secretary of State Hughes. Possibility of trouble with Mexican residents of the Texan border was responsible for the refusal, the acting governor said.

Granted Permission

Sante Fe, N. M.—The governor of New Mexico on Thursday granted permission for Mexican troops to pass through New Mexico en route from Nogales, Ariz., to Eagle Pass and Laredo, Tex.

The request for Gov. Hinkle's consent was made by Secertary Hughes of the state department.

The American government has made request for such passage of troops of the governors of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and has received favorable replies from the first two, but as yet no reply from the governor of Texas. In case a favorable reply is received from the latter, it was added, the request of the Mexican government would oe granted.

Hold Cabinet Meeting

Washington, Jan. 18—The situation in Mexico, recently complicated by the declaration of a revolutionary blockade at Tampico, was considered by President Coolidge and his advisors today at one of the longest cabinet sessions in recent years.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 18.—The downfall of General Alvaro Obregon as president of the republic of Mexico is being hastened by the support granted him by the United States, according to a statement made public today by Deputy Reinaldo Martinez, the recognized spokesman of the de la Huerta faction in San Antonia.

"The Mexican people have always looked unfavorably upon the intervention of a foreign power in their affairs," Mr. Martinez said. He later stated that the fact that the support of the people of the United States is going to the government of General Obregon is "doing much to bring about the downfall of the chief executive."

Rebels Take San Marcos

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 18.—The important railroad junction of San Marcos, east of Mexico City, has been captured by the rebel forces, wireless advices here today stated.

Rum Row Turns to Other Lines of Illegal Traffic

Atlantic Highlands, N. J.—State authorities claiming to have reduced to a thin trickle the flood of holiday liquor which has been pouring ashore from Rum Row, have set about checking the smuggling of diamonds, narcotics and aliens, in which the rum fleet and bottle fishermen are reported by residents to be actively engaged.

Colonel H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, and Major Kimberling of the Trenton headquarters, declared that these complaints have become so numerous that they have planned to station state troopers here permanently.

Several Chinese are known to have been smuggled in at Perth Amboy recently. The authorities asserted also that many shore rum-runners were transporting narcotics to New York, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Trenton, Newark and other centers.

"We know diamonds are being smuggled into Highlands, Waterwitch and Atlantic Highlands," said Sergeant Tighe, assigned to the phase of the troopers' activities. "They are too cheap there. Persons suspected of being in the rum business are offering diamonds at ridiculous prices, and one of the biggest men in the trade is reported to have boasted—even to the police—that he can get diamonds duty free."

Rice Lake—Fred Baumbergger has a burned hand as a result of an unusual accident. He saturated a corn cob pipe with gasoline and lighted it for the purpose of thawing a frozen water pipe. Sudden explosion of the gasoline burned both hands.

New London—M. C. Trayser, druggist here was overcome by gas in his garage and was revived with difficulty.

WINTER SPORTS

The group of local men who are constructing a toboggan slide at Bull's-Eye bluff, south of the city, are starting something, which, with the needed interest and enthusiasin in back of it, may well develop into something of much greater significance.

The slide which is being built at Bull's-Eye is being privately financed and presumably will be for private use. But there is no reason why the city of Wisconsin Rapids should not furnish a similar structure for public use. The cost is small and the need for stimulating outdoor recreation in winter is great.

Wisconsin Rapids is in the northern country which is generally recognized as the home of winter sports. The upper New England states and northern New York, Quebec, Montreal and other Canadian cities, and Minneapolis and St. Paul, with natural conditions little if any better than those enjoyed by central and northern Wisconsin, have not only provided healthful recreation for their own people but are attracting visitors from less favored localities who come for miles to participate in the winter sports.

Wisconsin Rapids is not in the Swiss Alps and we have no visions of entertaining hordes of winter visitors, here to slide down our toboggan slide or curve fancy figures on our river with their skates. But for the health and pleasure of the people of this community there should be municipal provisions for winter sports, including a suitable slide and a well maintained skating rink of size suitable for general use.

TO RELEASE GRIFFIS

Germany is getting ready to release Griffis, American patriot, who tried to kidnap the slacker Bergdoll, and that is wise from Germany's standpoint. Germany needs American sympathy. She can best get it by showing friendship on her side toward America.

Of course, Griffis was ill advised in attempting the kidnaping of Bergdoll. If the traitor were returned to this country, it would be embarrassing. The American people are too generous and too forgetful to countenance severe measures against Bergdoll. If he were back in jail here, we would not know what to do with him. Eventually we would turn him loose, to remain, a malcontent, in our midst.

We must admit that Bergdoll has done something for his country. It is related that at a community meeting, called for the purpose of finding ways to beautify the town, a man noted for his ugliness was called on. "Gentlemen," he said, "I can do one thing to beautify the town. I can move out of it." Well, Bergdoll has done one thing to increase the general average of patriotism and good citizenship in the United States. He has moved out of it. If a man of his stripe must be about at all, we prefer him 3,000 miles distant from our shores.

Let Germany keep Bergdoll and release Griffis. Let her keep our slackers and send our patriots back.

The House bill to prevent Orientals from taking up permanent residence in the United States ought to go through. A suggested exception in favor of Buddhist priests is reasonable. We send our missionaires converting what we are pleased to call "the heathen" of Asia. King Boris of Bulgaria, who reaches his 30th birthday today, has recently stated his intention to pay a visit to America as soon as conditions will permit. The youthful king came to the throne in 1918, when the fortunes of war forced the abdication of his father, King Ferdinand, who has since lived in exile in his native Coburg. It was in the nineties that Boris first came into prominence in connection with recognition by Powers of his father on Bulgarian throne. Ferdinand mounted the throne in 1887 in succession to Prince Alexander of Battenberg. Russia, however, withheld recognition of his title, as did also the other Powers. Nevertheless, Ferdinand maintained himself in his position until the way was finally paved for a better understanding with Russia, and when he consented to have his son Boris received into the Greek Church in 1896, Russia formally acknowledged Ferdinand as the sovereign of Bulgaria.

It's Days Like Yesterday That Makes Friends for KRUGER & TURBIN'S.

When things are frozen solid is when men get right down to solid facts.

Yesterday this store put several feathers in its cap because it had the warm caps—the lined coats and the heavy pants.

We secured a foothold in dozens of homes because of our warm hose—heavy underwear and our flannel shirts.

Men who came here for warm O'coats found them at sane affordable prices.

It's a sort of mean thing to wish—but we hope tomorrow is stormy agdin for that is when we blow up the most new friends.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and Church's Drug store and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds, it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

Sex Equality in Office Is Aim of Australian Women

Sydney, N. S. W.—Equality of sex in the matter of eligibility for public office is the aim of a movement inaugurated by Mrs. Cowan, the first and thus far the only woman member of the Australian parliament. With this object in view she introduced a bill, at the second reading of which she insisted there was no reason why women should not be ministers of the crown.

"If it were permissible," she said, "we should never again see the ludicrous anomaly which presented itself in New South Wales a year ago, when a man held the office of minister of motherhood."

Mrs. Cowan's bill provides that no person shall be disqualified by sex or marriage from the exercise of any public function, or from being appointed to any civil or judicial office, from practicing law, or from entering or carrying on any other civil profession.

Women must have a wider avenue of employment, she said, "because young men are not marrying in these days."

How Things Look To THE FARMER

By O. M. KILE

Washington, D. C.—Behind the announcement from Indianapolis that the American Legion will make an active campaign for the bonus, there lies a story that will interest farmers, particularly farmers who are members of cooperative marketing organizations.

Aaron Sapiro who has been such a spectacular figure in cooperative marketing activities, is chairman of the legislative committee of the Legion. He was instrumental in securing the election of John Quinn, the present National Commander, who is also a Californian. The majority of the legislative committee voted at a meeting early in December to undertake an active campaign for the bonus. Mr. Sapiro refused to abide by this decision and threatened to resign. Rather than force the issue at that time the matter was left in Sapiro's hands. He has very consistently done nothing since to promote the bonus publicly. Members of congress who are pledged to the bonus complained that they are receiving no support.

Finally leading Legionnaires openly charged that Sapiro was throttling the bonus to please certain administration leaders. They went to Indianapolis prepared to fight. A prompt reversal of policy followed.

The above is merely a sidelight on organization difficulties and dangers and has no reference whatever to the merits or lack of merits in the bonus contention.

Muscle Shoals had another inning Tuesday when Martin Madden, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and one of the chief republican leaders, told the committee considering the various suggestions for the disposition of Muscle Shoals that the Ford proposal far outranks any others yet received. He indicated that he would fight for acceptance of the Ford offer and oppose the recent offer made by the syndicate of nine water-power companies.

Mr. Madden characterized as "an insult" to the present committees, the plan now being pushed to create a small commission to receive and study offers for Muscle Shoals. He sees in it only a means of further delay.

On top of this declaration came to the committee a letter from Gray Silver, speaking for the Farm Bureau, demanding an early roll call vote on the Ford proposal. Mr. Silver said that "referring it (the disposition of Muscle Shoals) to a small committee and giving that committee authority to 'trade,' impresses the farmer mind as star chamber and dark alley methods."

It is becoming increasingly evident that what looked like administration support for the Ford tender, has crumbled and a bitter fight is now in prospect. Mr. Ford is, himself, partly to blame for this situation. By announcing his support of Mr. Coolidge's candidacy he not only destroyed the political club that was fast driving the administration to take definite action on Muscle Shoals, but he put Mr. Coolidge in a position where it is almost impossible for the latter to support the Ford offer without laying himself open to charges of a "trade."

"If you will let me control interest rates, tax rates, and railroad rates, I will control the volume of business in this country," said Sydney Anderson, Representative from Minnesota, and chairman of the Joint Commission on Agricultural Inquiry, at the completion of a lengthy investigation of the causes underlying the farmer's recent and present financial difficulties.

Senator LaFollette evidently believes that railroad rates are the nub of the situation just now. His joint resolution introduced Tuesday would cut freight rates on all farm products and farm implements to pre-war levels.

There is little prospect that any such drastic cuts will be made soon.

Many Institutes Are Scheduled In Central Counties

With 122 more farm institutes to be held in Wisconsin this winter, farmers of central Wisconsin will still have many opportunities to learn in their own localities some of the methods which are putting Wisconsin's agriculture on a firmer basis.

Wood county farmers have already had the opportunity of attending institutes at Junction City, Auburndale, Nasonville and Pittsville, in addition to a number of one day institutes, and no more have been scheduled for this county as yet. Institutes are still to be held however in nearly all of the adjacent counties, according to the following schedule announced by E. L. Luther of Madison, in charge of institute work in the state:

Adams county: Arkdale, March 4-5; Brooks, March 6-7.

Clark: Curtis, March 6-7.

Jackson: Alma Center, January 29-30; North Bend, January 31-February 1; Northfield, January 22-23.

Juneau: Hustler, February 14-15.

Marathon: Athens, February 26-27; Elderon, February 14-15; Fenwood, February 28-29.

Portage: Arnott, March 4-5; Bancroft, February 28-29.

Waushara: Plainfield, February 26-27; Wautoma, February 28-29.

Offer Cash Prizes for Accident Prevention Poster

The American Railway Association Committee on the Prevention of Highway Crossing Accidents, announces a national contest with cash prizes, for the best design of poster and most suitable slogan applicable to crossing accident prevention, for its 1924 campaign.

The design is tobe 21" high by 33" wide and to be in four colors. The slogan must be brief, catchy and practical.

All designs and slogans should be forwarded to the New York office, 90 West St., not later than February 11th. It is expected that many artists will send in posters.

The campaign conducted last year by the Chicago & North Western Ry., attracted considerable attention and produced excellent results in reducing the number of accidents.

Burned Over Timber in North Counties Auctioned

Madison, Wis.—Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman and State Treasurer Solomon Levitan returned to the capitol on Thursday after auctioning off timber located in Taylor, Vilas, Rusk, Oneida and Sawyer counties. The timber sold was overrun by fires which killed the trees but the lumber was not seriously damaged. In some instances the sale price was 50 per cent larger than the estimated value of the timber.

Dredge Much Marl From Waushara County Lakes

Madison, Wis.—The reclamation of marl from Wisconsin's Lakes to be sold to farmers as fertilizers is becoming a booming business with the reclamation work becoming systematized with efficient machinery.

For several years marl has been taken from lake bottoms in various sections and spread over farm lands and its value as fertilizer has greatly increased the demand for marl.

The most systematized reclamation of marl developed in Waushara county where under steam power a machine has been able to recover an average of 100 yards of marl a day. Waushara county is becoming especially enthusiastic over the use of marl as it has a light soil. Farmers of that county have been using about two tons of marl to the acre with good results.

Legion Defeats Busheymen In a Hammer And Tong Affair

Largest Crowd Of Year Sees Battle; Final Score 38-31

Legionnaires Forced to Work With But Three Man Offense; Newcomer Looks Good in Ranks and Should Be Valuable Addition; Gaulke Proves to Be a Bear on Defense.

Before the largest crowd of the year, but one that was not as big as the merits of the game deserved, the American Legion quint emerged winner over their old rivals, Fred Bushey's A. C. team from Waupaca, by a score of 38-31, in a game played last night on the amusement hall floor. That the game was even better than the hammer and tong second Stevens Point-Legion game was the opinion of fans who were kept on the verge of being nut house subjects during the entire second half as first one team and then the other would start attacks on the hoop that only stopped after the ball had been looped through on several occasions.

From the very start it was apparent that the real fans of the city were going to get their share of thrills and when Madsen, Neenah Booster star, dropped a long one through from the center of the floor the crowd went wild settling back momentarily only to arise again shortly when Stark and Ritchay dropped the ball through on two pretty attempts. From that time on it was a basketball classic, each team attempting to outguess and outspeed the other, many times succeeding after brilliant work on the floor.

Gaulke Stops Madson

With Art Plahmer out of the game, "Stub" Gaulke was rushed in to fill the center position and fill it he did, his floor work on offense being largely responsible for several close in shots for his team and on defense, the second half, he made Madson look quite unlike the bear-cat he proved to be during the first half. "Jimmy" Kellogg was out of the game with weak ankles and to fill this breach Manager Ragan prevailed upon Huffcut, former Bushey star of years ago, to fill in. Without being in a basketball suit since 1918 and entirely unacquainted with the Legion's style of play, the newcomer failed to work smoothly on offense, but on defense showed that he was possessed with plenty of speed and knowledge of the game. He should, after working out with the locals, prove to be a valuable addition.

Through the absence of both Plahmer and Kellogg the Ranids was forced to work with only a three man offense, Stark, Ritchay and Gaulke working like pistons to overcome the heavy handicap. Throughout the first half the scoring was pretty evenly divided between these three. Ritchay negotiating four goals from the field and "Pudge" and "Stub" each three. For Waupaca, the highly touted Madson came up to expectations, looping in four field goals while Craven managed to sink one and Thomoson, former Wisconsin Ranids star, dropped in a free throw. The half ended 20-11 in favor of the Legionnaires.

Bushey Five Runs Wild

Starting the second half like a team of world beaters the Bushey five played rings around the locals for seven minutes, scoring 14 points in the third quarter before the Legion five managed to sink a counter. Don Bushey, flashy forward, who had been held scoreless the first half, opened up with a burst of speed, dropping in five baskets from all angles. Mixed in with his baskets were two by C. Bushey, from the center of the floor, and one by Thompson. At this point the Legion quint took time out, changed their offense and again took the whip hand in the struggle and unlike the third quarter when they only scored two points, they again opened up and aided by brilliant under-the-basket work by Stark they pulled ahead in the last five minutes of play and never again were headed.

With seven minutes to play the score stood 31-24 in Waupaca's favor, but then the Legion, for the first time this year, really exhibited its true strength, rushing the Busheymen off their feet and crawled up through a classy display of teamwork. Stark, big gun on offense for the evening, was simply unstoppable under the basket, his size and strength making it impossible for the Neenah guards to stop him while under the hoop while "Ritch" dropped them in from all angles. Within two minutes the Legion bunch had brought the score up to 32-31 in their favor and with the crowd wild with excitement they pulled away from the Waupaca five bit by bit until they had established a seven point lead.

Dance Goes Over Big

After the game Favell's Gloom Chasers lined up their instruments and before long the big majority of the crowd were out on the floor doing their stuff along Art Murray's lines. The dance was a ten cent-three-for-a-quarter affair, given under the auspices of the American Legion post, and was well attended, proving beyond a doubt that the basketball-dance after program is going to be a success this year.

Sure Shots Sure Lose

In the preliminary game Dolan's Sure Shots were defeated by the Port Edwards five by a 26-18 margin. This game, like the wind-up, was hard fought all the way through, but better teamwork on the part of the down river five resulted in them having the advantage at the end.

LEGION TO PLAY ONLY CRACK FIVES

INCREASED PATRONAGE OF LAST NIGHT AND GREAT ARTICLE OF BALL DISPLAYED GIVES MANAGEMENT NEW HEART

Seemingly to have hit their stride in their tilt last night against Waupaca, the American Legion team will from now on mix with nothing but the established basketball leaders of the state, according to an announcement made by Manager Fred Ragan who added that this announcement was of course dependent upon the patronage offered by local fans.

Others Want to Play Here

It has been known for some time that the best teams of the state, fully aware of the old Tri-Cities standing in Wisconsin basketball circles, have been attempting to land games in this city, but owing to the delay in starting the season and lack of real support, Manager Ragan was reluctant to schedule games with teams of the first class because first class teams are the ones who want the big money guarantees. Encouraged by the good turnout last night, despite cold weather handicaps, it was stated that nothing but the best would be brought here.

Among the teams who want to clash with the locals are the Kiel Scouts, Lena, Fond du Lac, Berlin, Beaver Dam, Portage, Marshfield, Neenah Boosters, Basing's Sports of Appleton and other teams, all of the first class type. Included in the lineup of Basing's Sports are Basing, former local son, and "Bill" Smith, this city. Other players on the team are Jacobson and Kubitz of Lawrence college, and Wilson, former University of Illinois star.

Marshfield Next

When questioned as to the next game Manager Ragan said, "We plan to play Marshfield up there this week and after that we are going to get Neenah Boosters here if possible. Then will come Kiel, Lena, Portage, Fond du Lac and other teams, assuring the fans of a real run for their money.

Agitation is being started now among the business men to take up a purse in hopes of landing the Milwaukee Badgers here. Those back of the movement say that it will be worth anyone's time and money to see Williams and Tebell, the greatest pair of guards that ever graced a big ten floor, in action. Others in the Badger lineup are Dunne, Michigan, Duford, Marquette; Carney, Illinois; Meyers, Wisconsin; Taylor, Wisconsin; Karst, Marquette and other lesser lights.

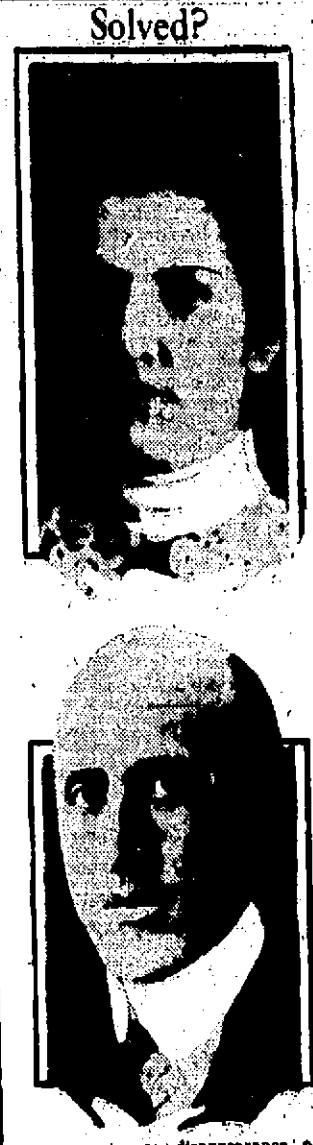
Solved?



The strange disappearance of Mrs. Warren J. Lincoln (above) from Aurora, Ill., last summer has just been explained by Warren J. Lincoln, her husband (below), who police say has confessed killing the woman and her brother and burning their dismembered bodies in a furnace. Lincoln also disappeared and it was thought at first that he had been killed. He is a lawyer and horticulturist and claims kinship to Abraham Lincoln.

GAME TONIGHT AT POINT IS FEATURE OF VALLEY CARD

RITCHAYMEN VOW TO TAKE POINTERS INTO CAMP WHILE OPPONENTS HOPE TO WIPE OUT FOOTBALL DEFEAT

With the Stevens Point high school vs. Lincoln high school of this city as the feature attraction of the week end, the Wisconsin valley conference race will get into full swing tonight. Other games on the valley schedule are: Wausau at Antigo, Medford at Marshfield, and Merrill at Rhinelander with Rhinelander, Antigo and Medford favored to cop.

Fans Accompany Team

With Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids locking horns on the Pointer's floor, Point fans will be assured of a real treat with the Pointers having what advantage there is by playing on their home floor. The Ritchaymen will have their strongest lineup of the year in action and with their unquestioned speed are bound to give Coach Hunting's veteran squad more than a run for their money.

Accompanied by a goodly crowd of fans who left via the C. B. & W. this afternoon, the team vowed that they would try to turn the trick of trimming the Pointers in their own hallwick and are out to do that very thing. That they will have their hands full is the opinion of local fans who are aware of the fact that Stevens Point will give everything they have to cop a win, thus wiping out the sting of the unexpected football defeat of last fall.

Under Handicap

Although not confident to the extreme, the local players feel that they are sure to show improvement and figure that their unquestioned speed on the court will more than offset the Pointer's weight and speed advantage.

Medford, possessed with speed, height and basketball knowledge should easily trim Marshfield, for some reason or other the weak sister in all branches of sport this year. At Antigo the veteran team from that city should triumph over "Cubby" Ewers' Wausau team while Merrill is not in the same class with Rhinelander.

Tex Announces Dempsey-Gibbons Battle For June

New York—Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight title against Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, in a fifteen round decision match in New York, probably at the Polo grounds, the first week in June, Tex Rickard announced on Thursday.

The promoter, who announced several days ago that he had arranged the return match between these rivals, revealed further details in denying reports that he planned to conduct the bout during the democratic national convention, which opens here on June 24, in Madison Square garden.

At the same time, Rickard disclosed that after the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, contracts for which he expects to have signed within a fortnight, his next fistic venture will not take place before the middle of July, when he plan sto stage a heavyweight elimination test between Harry Wills, negro contender, and Luis Angel Firpo, "wild bull of the Pampas." The winner of this match, if Rickard's plans materialize, would fight Dempsey in September, providing the champion succeeded in disposing of Gibbons in June.

Rickard, who was a member of the citizen's committee that worked to bring the democratic convention here, declared he wanted to make it plain that there will be no bouts held here under his auspices during the political conclave or any effort on his part to commercialize the event.

In this connection, the promoter pointed out that the $55,000 guaranteed the convention for concessions at Madison Square garden was fixed merely as a minimum return from this source. Any and all profit over that amount will go to the convention, he asserted.

Knotty Problems Of Basketball

Ques.—Please answer the following questions. (a) While time is out for an injury a substitute comes on the court and communicates with a teammate. The referee calls a technical foul. When is the free throw made? (b) During the intermission between the first and second quarters of a high school game, a foul is called for the same offense as in (a). When is the free throw made? Ans.—(a) The free throw is attempted at the end of the time-out period; that is, play is resumed with the free throw. This is covered by Rule 11, Sec. 3. (b) The free throw is attempted at once and the ball is dead after the free throw whether made or missed. Play for the second quarter must be resumed by throwing the ball up at center. Rule 8, Sec. 5a.

Ques.—A player dribbles and shoots, missing the goal. Before the ball touches any other player, this player recovers the ball, dribbles to get in front of the basket, and shoots again. Is this legal? Ans.—No, he has made a second dribble, and the ball when out of his possession after the first dribble did not touch another player, it is assumed that the dribbler completed his first dribble by shooting for goal with both hands, or by letting the ball come to rest in one or both hands. Rule 14, Sec. 11.

Ray Defeated by Former Amateur Runner at Mile

New York—Any tears shed because of Willie Ritola's departure to run under the colors of his native Finland would appear to have been wasted.

Lloyd Hahn of Boston, junior national A. A. U. champion at one mile, nominated himself as Ritola's successor in his first big race in New York at the Silk A. A. games, in which he beat Joie Ray worse than Ray has been beaten in many a month.

Hahn was given a 20-yard handicap. Opinions regarding the finish were various. Some thought Hahn was only 16 yards in front of Ray at the end of the 1,500 meters. Others believed he had stretched the original 20 yards to 22.

Ray's affectionate esteem for Joie Ray was warmer than ever before the race, when he said "I'll beat this fellow by 100 yards." As a rule, Ray makes good his boasts, but in this attempt he failed and his tune changed to "I didn't know it was a handicap race until we were ready to start."

Whether or not Ray expected a handicap race, he was given an even run at his favorite distance by a boy whom he had professed to regard as no challenger at all.

Bud Taylor Tragic Figure At Frankie Jerome Funeral

New York,—Frankie Jerome, the Bronx Spider," was buried on Thursday while a vast throng paid tribute to the memory of the bantam-weight boxer, who died after taking the count of ten for the first and last time at Madison Square last Friday night.

Promoters, managers, ring champions and preliminary boys mingled in the crowd that gathered for services at the home of Jerome's parents, then thronged St. Jerome's Catholic church, where the dead boxer once served as an altar boy, and finally followed the cortege to St. Raymond's cemetery.

In the shadows of the church, too, there was a silent, tragic figure—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., boxer, whose knockout of Jerome in the twelfth and last round of their fight had resulted in the latter's death two days later from the effects of a ruptured blood vessel. Taylor, cleared of blame in connection with Jerome's death, was there to pay homage to one of the gamest antagonists he ever fought.

Californian Wins Open Golf Championship of Coast

Los Angeles—California won the greatest glory of the day when MacDonald Smith, San Francisco, captured the open golf championship with a score of 295 for four rounds at the Los Angeles Country club. Eddie Loos, Chicago, finished second, one stroke behind.

Arthur G. Havers the British open champion could not get going. Havers took 328 and was far down the list.

Abe Espinosa came in with a total of 297. Gene Sarazen, American professional champion, finished in the low eighties for a total of 308.

George von Elm, with a brilliant 70 for his final round, led the amateurs with 307. Willie Hunter did 314 and Clark Speirs was second best amateur with 309.

Ex-Landlady Says Angel Was 'Divil With Furniture'

New York—Luis Angel Firpo might have won the world's heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey if he had treated the titleholder as roughly as he did her furniture, Mrs. Mildred Swartzlander asserted on Thursday after being awarded $500 damages in a Municipal court suit against the pugilist.

According to Mrs. Swartzlander, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" leased her West Ninety-fourth street apartment for six months, during which time she charges chair and table legs were broken, upholstery ruined and other articles badly marred.

"Why that big fellow must have set through everything he put his weight on," she exclaimed, adding that Firpo had failed to pay for any of the damage.

She also asserted that Firpo disdained modern custom by taking the mattress for his bed and sleeping on it on the floor.

Bresnahan intimated that he had received some cash in addition to the players.

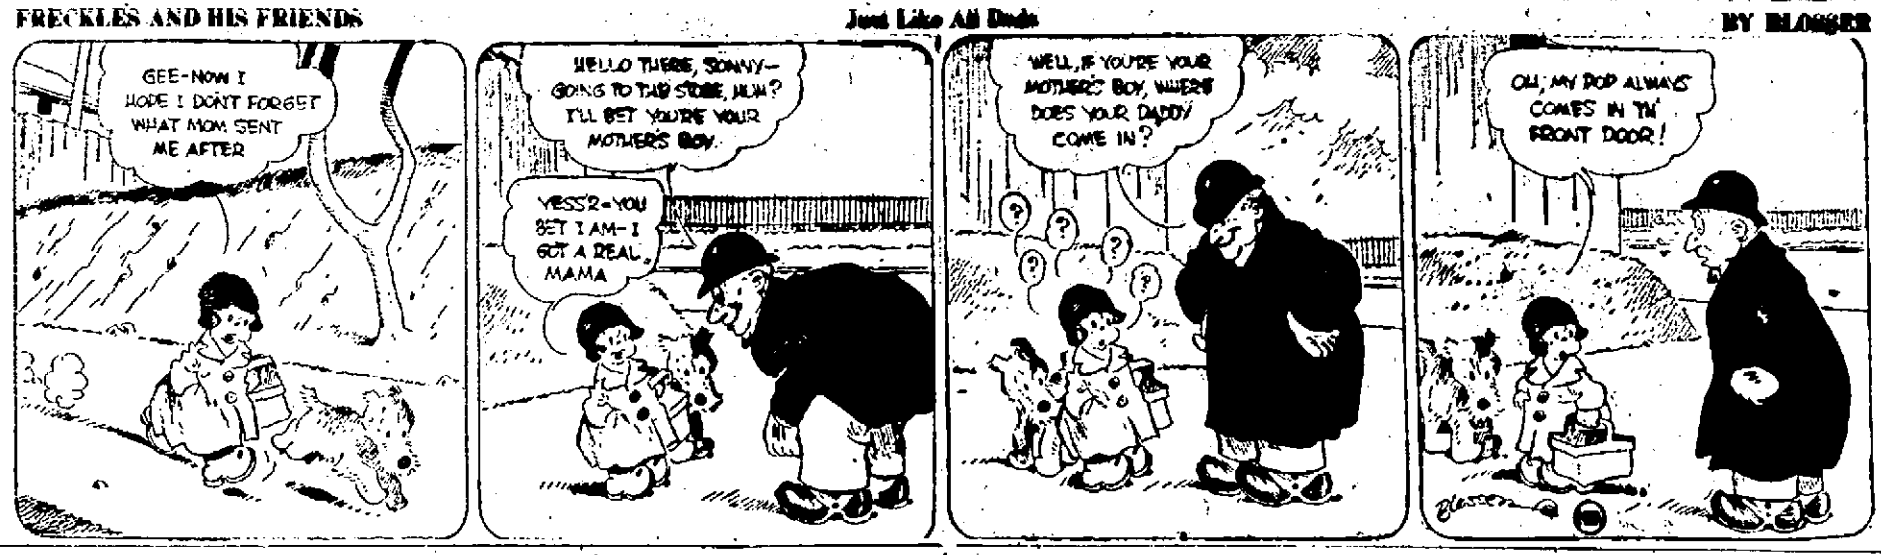
FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS — Just Like All Dads — BY BLOSSER



"Swallowed Up"

—By—

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hope Ranger is held prisoner in a sanitarium conducted by a group of criminals called the "Combine." Dr. Kelsey is detained in the same hospital because he knows of criminal dealings of the superintendent, Dr. Bristow.

Hope and Kelsey escape in Bristow's car. The two take refuge in an abandoned house.

While Kelsey sleeps Hope hears Bistow's voice and knows that he has followed them. Hope surrenders to Bristow and tells him that Kelsey has abandoned her.

Bristow goes to consult with his partner, Nurse Copley, and with Alderman Higgins, the real head of the "Combine." Juarez Charlie, adventurer and friend of Ranger, is following on a motorcycle a clew leading to the sanitarium.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Higgins considered this; but, having neither objection nor suggestion to offer, turned to another phase of the situation.

"How about this cockroach with the motorcycle?" he demanded. "What's he up to, since he got turned out of the calaboose?"

"Saving his hide, I fancy. He knows enough to have a very wholesome respect for that message you sent him. They said he went to pieces badly, when he saw it, and he told Simonds that this part of the country wouldn't see him soon again."

Bristow though a minute.

"The whole point is this," he said finally. "What Juarez Charlie may know or suspect is immaterial; we can take care of him, if necesary. But what he may have told Ranger is another kettle of fish. I hold though, that every indication points to his having said little or nothing."

Hobo Bill pondered this, thoughtfully rubbing his great, protuberant knuckles.

"You want to be a Master Mind!" He poured out a stream of abscene abuse. "What did you do, when you ketched that Kelsey gettin' an earful on you? If I'd 'a' been here, he'd have been jolted off so quick, 'twould have made his hair curl. Anita saw it was the only thing to do. But you wouldn't listen to her. You was running things. You wanted to try an experiment, and handle the matter on smoother, more scientific lines. A nice mess your scientific handling has got us into."

He choked, unable to go on. His face was purple, his great, sagging body shaking and quivering, his arms beating on his chair.

Anita Copley was at his side. Bending over him, she tried to quiet him. Bristow stood aloof, white-faced and very stiff.

The gust of fury subsided as suddenly as it had arisen. Higgins, after catching his breath, lay back in his chair. The purple slowly receded from his face, and left it gray and impassive once more. His hands ceased shaking, and again rested motionless on the arms of his chair.

When he spoke at last, it was in his usual grating monotone; but the settled, impervious quiet of his voice was more alarming than his outburst of anger.

"We can't take no more chances," he said. "We'll end this Hope Ranger job tonight."

"You mean—?" Anita Coley asked sharply.

"There won't be no such person tomorrow.

CHAPTER XXV

One could have heard a pin drop. There was dead silence in the room, but it vibrated with the clash of opposing wills.

Anita Copley had dropped her lids, but the glitter of her eyes showed beneath her lashes. She was watching Bristow.

They were waiting for him, Higgins ready to negative anything he said Anita longing for him to expostuiate, that she might have the satisfacon of deciding against him But even in this pass, he took pleasure in thwarting them, in following the opposite tack from the one they expected.

"Ah Extreme measures?" He spoke quietly, implying by his tone that Higgins had not given a final decree, but had suggested an expendient which was open for discussion. "Well, if that is the only recourse, I am for it. But to give up without a struggle at this stage, to charge off so promising an enterprise as a dead loss.—"

Higgins' wrinkled hand fumbled up to his chin. He showed that in spite of himself, Bristow's arguments had given him pause to think.

"You talk like you had something a'ready up your sleeve," he squinted shrewdly through his glasses. "Judgin' by recent performances, 'tain't probably worth hell room. But I'll listen. What's your big idea, Doc? Spring it."

Bristow laughed deprecatingly. "You could hardly dignify it by calling it an idea. Just a suggestion that's been floating around in my mind while we've been talking. It's scarcely formed yet. It will take you to put it in shape, and work out the details."

Bristow paused the wink of an eyelash, and then plunged. "My idea is, return Hope Ranger to her father."

If he had been seeking to create a dramatic effect, he could not have succeeded better. Miss Copley's lowered lids shot up. She expelled her breath in a gasp that sounded like a hiss. Higgins reared back in his chair.

Bristow ignored it.

"Suppose then," he was talking directly to Higgins, "instead of working under cover, and following our original plan of getting all we can out of Ranger, and then putting the girl out of the way, we come boldly into the open? We notify him that we have reason to suspect his dauhter is held here as a patient. We give him and his wife the opportunity to identify and observe her. But we do not let her see or speak to them. We explain that the shock might be disastrous in her present condition. Meanwhile, we are doing everything possible for the girl. We enlarge her privileges, give her the tenderest care, distract her mind, buoy up her spirits, and eventually cure her. Don't you imagine that her parents will be so grateful, that no fee I could name would seem exorbitant

"More than that, I can easily convince them that she will require constant, trained supervision to prevent a recurrence of the neurosis. Alderman, we can capitalize that girl into an annual income. I'll occupy the position of family friend and benefactor, with all the business and social opportunities that the term implies."

"All very nice," Higgins ran his fingers through his straggling, gray hair. "Got some points, too. But how the devil, Doc, are you ever going to explain her bein' here, or square this up with your passin' her off as Anita's sister?"

"Oh, that?" He examined his finger-nails. "Why, Anita will simply have to disappear. Go to Tokio, or Buenos Ayres, or some other charming place, and enjoy herself. Then we can very plausibly say, that we were imposed on by one of our nurses, who introduced the dazed girl here as her sister. Our suspicions became aroused; but before we could question the nurse, she got frightened and took French leave. We can frame up a suicide for her, if it's necessary."

The Copley woman's agitation, which had been steadily rising, suddenly broke all bounds. She flung herself forward to face Bristow, her features contorted, her eyes burning.

"So that's your beautiful scheme, is it?" The low, restrained speech which she so carefully affected gave way to her natural coarse shrillness. "I'm to be the goat, and shoulder all the blame, am I?" I'm to be conveniently shunted out of the way, so that you can carry on your love-affair Well, not by a damn' sight, Harvey Bristow!"

"I ought to order you into a strait-jacket." He looked at her with cold scorn. "You're a candidate for the violent ward, with your hysterical delusions. It's all too absurd to answer.

"Alderman, I as you," he appealed to the old man, "who was it that first proposed this abduction? Whose idea was it? We all remember the day Anita came home chuckling, because a sales girl in a shop had mistaken her for Hope Ranger."

"Yes; and you set right to work to see how you could do me and the Alderman."

"No, my dear; it was you who did that. Do you think I haven't fathomed what is in that warped, calculating brain of yours? Loring Ranger and his wife," significantly, "might soon die—the weight of grief and all that. Then you could appear as the missing daughter, and lay claim to the estate."

The old man, scowlin in his chair, had listened keenly to their exchange of aspersions. Now he seemed to weary of it, and leaning forward, he banged down his fist.

"Shut up, you two," he ordered. "We've had enough of this. I'll settle what's to be done."

He glanced from one to the other, reflecting.

"What you'll do, Anita," he laid down his directions "is dress the Ranger girl in your nurse's clothes—everything, mind you, shoes, stocking and all;—while you get into hers, and take her place. Then she, passing off as you, will go out tonight on an automobile ride, and have a fatal accident, all smashed up beyond hope of reconition. Anita Copley will be dead, and Verna Copley, the crazy sister, will be left on our hands, with no relatives to look after her. We'll get in a new nurse that don't know neither of you to take care of her; but of course we can't keep a dependent girl in an expensive joint like this. And so in a day or two, we ship her off to a public asylum, where she—that is, you—can get well as soon as you please. Then let Loring Ranger, or anybody else come snooping around here, if they want to. There ain't nothin' to be found out".

She considered his proposal, eyeing him doubtfully; and then nodded her assent.

"I'll take it on," she said; "but, if you two are double-crossing me, God help you."

"There's only one point that bothers me," Higgins debated. "How're we going to get this girl out to the automobile, so it looks like she goes willingly, and of her own accord?"

"Oh, I'll fix that!" the woman promised. "I'll tell her she's going to drive with Dr. Bristow." She threw him a glance venomously triumphant. "She'll go like a lamb."

THE OLD HOME TOWN — BY STANLEY

Tax Facts

This is a series of articles of value to all who are required to file federal income tax returns for 1923.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

No. 14:

In computing net income taxpayers are allowed to deduct from gross income deductions for losses incurred not only in the taxpayer's business but losses sustained in any transaction entered into for profit, or if arising from "fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty." Deductions for losses are allowed only to the extent that they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Claims for losses should conform closely to the wording of the statute. While a taxpayer may feel certain that property owned by him is worth less than the purchase price; he is not allowed a deduction until the loss is made absolute by the sale or other disposition of the property.

Frequent claims are made for deductions for losses in the sale of residence property. A loss sustained in the sale of a residence, which at the time of purchase was bought without intention of selling, is not a deductible item "because it was not a transaction entered into for profit." For the same reason, a loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for personal use may not be deducted. The intent to make a profit must have existed at the beginning of the venture.

A manufacturer compelled to scrap machinery because it has gradually become obsolete may deduct the loss sustained if he has sold or otherwise abandoned the machinery. Usually, to be deductible, as a loss, the assets upon which the loss has been sustained must have completely disappeared as a resource to the taxpayer.

No. 15.

Whether or not connected with his trade or business, a loss sustained by reason of fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty is a deductible item. The term "other casualty," within the meaning of the statute, is one which arises from the physical forces of nature; for example, a flood or frost. If a taxpayer's home or automobile is destroyed by fire, or if his summer bungalow is damaged by a storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. Allowance, of course, must be made for any insurance received.

In event of a collision between a truck and an automobile used for pleasure or convenience, the owner of the truck may claim a deduction for damages, provided at the time the truck was being used for business purposes. No deduction is allowed the owner of the automobile because the car was not being used for business; neither is it a "casualty" as defined above. Amounts expended by owners of automobiles used for pleasure or convenience in repairing damages thereto caused by negligent operation do not constitute deductible losses.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is deductible, also a loss for embezzlement. Ordinarily a loss from embezzlement or theft occurring in one year and discovered in another is deductible for the year in which sustained.

Losses in illegal transactions are not deductible.

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, B. M. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Advertisement.

G. H. SUHS HEADS NEPCO E. M. B. A.

MUTUAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1924 AT ANNUAL MEETING LAST NIGHT

G. H. Suhs of Port Edwards was elected president of the Employes Mutual Benefit association of the Nekoosa-Edwards company at the annual meeting of the organization held at the Port Edwards hotel last night. Other officers who will serve the association during 1924 are F. R. Goddard, vice-president; R. C. Peterson, secretary; and A. P. Mulroy, G. N. Suhs and F. H. Rosebush, executive committee.

Protects Employes

The Nepco Mutual association was organized to provide protection to employes of the company and their families against sickness, accident or death. The plan of cooperative effort is one which has been generally followed in American industry and there are now over 700 such associations in the country.

Membership of the Nepco association totals 868, which is 96 per cent of the total number of men employed by the company at its mills at Nekoosa and Port Edwards. Receipts during the year 1923, according to reports submitted at last night's meeting were $16,338, while $13,322 was paid out in benefits to members. The association now has a total of $11,305.20 cash on hand.

$12,874 for Accidents

The $13,322 which the association disbursed in benefits was not the only money received in that way by Nekoosa-Edwards employes. The Employers Mutual Liability and Insurance company of Wausau paid a total of $12,874 to Nekoosa-Edwards employes in 1923 under the provisions of the state workmen's compensation act under which all employees of industrial establishment are insured against accidents.

Salesmanship Course Will Be Given Here; Starts Soon

Wisconsin Rapids salespeople and others interested from this city and community will be given a splendid opportunity to attend a free course in salesmanship which will be conducted by the Wisconsin Rapids Retailer's Ass'n, in cooperation with W. A. Sprise, local director of Vocational Education, starting Wednesday evening, January 23. The course will extend over a period of six weeks and will fall each Wednesday evening commencing next Wednesday. The assembly room of the Lincoln High School will be used for the course.

No Cost Whatever

There will be no cost to those attending. There is no registration fee or texts necessary which would involve any expenditure whatsoever, Mr. Sprise and members of the Retailers Association, stated in an interview with the Tribune.

Attendance is not compulsory, it was stated, although there will be registration cards passed each time for those in attendance to sign in order that it can be deterinined the number attending and the cards will carry brief questionnaires to learn what the students think of the course. Registration cards will be sorted and turned into the employers of clerks, so that the proprietors and managers of business will know what interest their salespeople take in the course and to see how regularly they attend and how consistent their interest is in improving their sales ability. It is thought that conscientious salespeople will avail themselves of the opportunity to improve their work and show their employers that they have a keen interest in their work by regular attendance.

Good Subjects

Interesting sales subjects will be presented with illustrations of important points by the leaders who are well versed in salesmanship. The University of Wisconsin text for the course will be used as a basis although those leading the course will not confine themselves to the information contained in the university course. The following is the program with the subjects, leaders and the dates.

L. P. Daniels, Manager, Hotel Witter, Introduction in Salesmanship, "Psychology of Selling," January 23.

E. R. Bump, Sales manager, Standard Oil Co., La Crosse, Wisconsin, "Knowing and Studying Your Merchandise," January 30.

C. F. Kruger, President, Wood County Grocery Co., "Personal Qualifications of a Salesman," "Beginning a Sale," and "Sizing Up The Customer," February 6.

G. O. Babcock, Cashier, Wood County National Bank, "How To Make Sales Talks Effective," February 13.

Earl Hill, Sales Department, Consolidated Water Power & Paper Co., "How To Make Sales Talk Effective," Con't., February 13.

C. A. Normington, Normington Bros., "Why People Buy" and "Substitution of Sale," February 20.

P. A. Pratt, President, Wisconsin Valley Creamery Co., "How to Meet Objections," February 20.

L. E. Nash, Vice President and Manager Nekoosa Edwards Paper Co., "Closing a Sale" and "Following Up A Sale," February 27.

FOR FATHER'S COUGH

January is usually one of the coldest months, and brings its share of cough, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold, as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "You HONEY AND TA RCOMPOUND has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is feeling fine now," writes Nicolasa Gonzales, Cuero, Texas.—Adv.
